

Changing Winds

Intro

Welcome to Changing Winds Mini-Series

When I first came up with this project, I only had 1 painting in mind. I told my friend about my idea and asked her what a good name would be for her. As we went back and forth and decided on Changing Winds, it suddenly came to mind that there should be 3 sides to her and not just one. So here we are with 3 slightly different projects. Each one has its own perspective. As you begin to create your own painting, think about different seasons or totally different backgrounds. Maybe your doll lives in the forest or the beach! I can see her with so many different ways. I think it would be fantastic to see what you end up creating with your doll. I am a beach baby so my mind is already thinking of how cool she would look at the beach being sunkissed on the West Coast!! Maybe she will have a glass of wine instead of a bird..Hmmm... you can see where I am going with this thought already!

You have all the tools and instructions, and the possibilities are endless.

It would be great to have you share on Instagram, Facebook and even Twitter!

Photos and Line Drawings for 3 Different Positions

1 each color print

1 each black and white print

1 each line drawing

I have made line drawings to match as close as I could to exact sizes of the photographs. The wings can be changed out with simply cutting them off the original photos and swapped out!
