

I thought you would like to see how your dashboard works. Its pretty simple, but can also be a little confusing if you have never been on this type of platform before.

Below are images I put together that gives you an idea of what each of the links on the left side look like once you click on them. Please feel free to contact me with any questions or issues you may have once you start exploring.

This is an example of your course page. You can find the full view under the login dropdown listed as YOUR COURSES.

When you first joined the website, you were emailed a generic password. You can either keep it, or create a new one. If you do forget your password, no worries, you can request a reset. Just so you know, I do not have access to view your passwords, so they are safe with you.
